Gentlemen—I have no hesitancy in saying I consider Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin the best tonic I have ever found. When I began taking it I was not what the doctors would term ill, but I felt dull, my appetite was almost gone; I was afflicted more or less with neuralgia, and was fearful all the time lest I should be taken sick with typhoid fever. I dragged along this way for several months, took what little medicine the physicians gave me and noticed only a little temporary improvement.

A month ago I was told by a friend to try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and I laughed at the idea. He had part of a bottle left and he gave it to me. I took a dose that night and continued to take it, closely following directions. Within less than a week I felt like a new man. To-day my appetite has returned, my neuralgia is cured, and I never felt better in my life. Of course, it was Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin which has done it for me. I am telling my friends what it has done for me.

Gentlemen—At intervals for more than a year previous to the last two months I suffered a great deal from sick headache, brought about, I believe, by faulty digestion. I would awake in the morning with a dull, aching pain above my eyes which affected my sight considerably. I knew I was bilious and had tried a number of remedies without securing more than temporary relief. All sorts of headache powders failed to relieve the pain in my head. I finally bought one large bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. The relief was immediate. I have taken the medicine regularly according to directions, and my headache has entirely disappeared. My appetite is better than for many months. I am glad to be able to recommend Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to all whose symptoms of illness are like mine.

PEPSIN SYRUP CO., Monticello, Ill.:

Gentlemen: In reply to your inquiry as to the result of our experience with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, will say that we have been using it in the "Working Women's Home" for some years, and find that it meets a long-felt want.

As a laxative and remedy for all ailments of the stomach and bowels we have found nothing that works so well. In an institution similar to ours, such a medicine is absolutely necessary, and we feel confident that it only needs a trial to convince one of the real merits of the remedy. We have found it invaluable in cases of sick headache, and can heartily recommend it to all sufferers from such.

Yours very truly,
DR. LUELLA DAY UNDERHILL,
Medical Supt.

Dr. Caldwell's (Laxative) Syrup Pepsin

THE men and women who create the wealth of this country by turning the vast undeveloped resources into finished, marketable products are the class to which this remedy most appeals. Those who consider it essential to call in the family physician for every trifling ill are prone to look with disfavor on all proprietary or "patent" medicines, but the men and women whose daily vocation is such that they must courageously face the bitter cold of winter and endure the intense heat of summer, and who may have to suffer the discomforts of too early breakfasts, too late dinners and cold mid-day "banquets" from the dinner pail and lunch box, are the men and women who find it necessary to have at hand the best remedies, the honest ones, for the prompt relief and cure of those disorders of the stomach and bowels to which they become subject.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an honest remedy, manufactured by a reliable company. There are no panels in the bottles to deceive the unwary; the package is plain and readily distinguished by the face of Dr. W. B. Caldwell. The manufacturers do not claim for it that it will cure everything, but they do claim, and back up their claim with an absolute guarantee, that it will cure any ordinary case of Indigestion, Constipation, Biliousness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach and Sick Headache, and if it fails will refund your money promptly and without any quibbling. If you think that is fair enough, write to-day to Pepsin Syrup Co., Monticello, Illinois, and ask for a sample bottle, mentioning this advertisement, stating your vocation and your complaint. If you are pleased with the sample and think it will help you, then go to your druggist and purchase either the 50c or $1.00 bottle. Take it according to directions, and if you are not benefited return the bottle and get your money back.

Mothers of fretful, peevish children who suffer at this season from the little ills of childhood, which, if neglected, may result in serious ills, will find in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin a remedy which may safely be administered to the most delicate babe, and which, being so pleasant to the taste, will readily be taken by a sick, cross child when other medicine would nauseate and sicken. It will quickly assist nature to clean out the system, heal and cool the bowels, sweeten the sour stomach and soon restore the little sufferer to health again.

The letters which are published in this advertisement are bona fide unsolicited expressions from those whose opinions are valued by all who know them. We have their full consent to use them for the purpose of letting others know through our advertising of the wonderful merit of the only medicine of its kind ever placed on the market.

Dear Sirs: I have used Dr. W. B. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for several years for indigestion and constipation, and it has cured me. It is the best medicine for headache that I have ever taken. I would not think of going out on my engine without a bottle of it in my seat box.

Yours truly,
